5. Exoneration

1If Zimex proves that the person making the claim for damages or the person from whom the claimant derives its rights has caused or contributed to the damage by a breach of duty or by any other unlawful act or omission, it is exonerated from its liability to that person to the extent that such breach of duty or unlawful act or omission has caused or contributed to the damage.

2If any person other than the Passenger is compensated for death or personal injury, Zimex shall be released from its liability to the extent that it proves that a breach of duty or any other wrongful act or omission by the Passenger caused or contributed to the damage.

6. Deadline for notification of damage

1If the consignee accepts checked-in luggage without reservation, this justifies the rebuttable presumption that it was delivered undamaged and in accordance with the ticket of carriage.

3If the carriage of checked baggage is delayed; the recipient must report in writing within 21 days after the baggage has been handed over to the consignee.

4If the notification period is missed, any action against Zimex is excluded, unless it has acted maliciously.

7. Time limit for the claim for damages

The claim for damages must be brought within two years of arrival at the place of destination or after the plane should have arrived or after the carriage has been canceled. Following this period, the right to any claims is forfeited.

8. Prepayments

1If an aircraft accident results in the death or injury of a passenger, Zimex shall make prepayments to natural persons entitled to compensation to meet their immediate economic needs. These advance payments must be paid within 15 days from the identification of the natural persons entitled to claim for damages.

2In the event of death, the advance payment must not be less than the amount of 16'000 SDR.

3The advance payments do not constitute liability recognition. They can be offset against future payments by Zimex or its insurer.
